

Taxpayers' File More Suits Against Garrett

Two additional taxpayers' suits have been filed in Hempstead Circuit Court against former County Judge U. G. Garrett. The first one was filed March 13.

Friday Monroe Kent, a farmer, filed a suit against Mr. Garrett and named William Duckett Sr. and Duckett Equipment Co. as defendants. The suit called for the return of a caterpillar tractor and other equipment to the county, plus a fair rental from Nov. 1, 1959. Mr. Kent alleges that Judge Garrett sold the equipment illegally to the Duckett firm and that no money has ever been paid to the county for the equipment.

On Thursday B. W. Edwards filed a second taxpayers' suit calling for the recovery of certain county equipment. The suit listed a one ton air conditioner unit, a 1958 model, valued at $250; an Underwood typewriter 1959 model valued at $356.17 and surveying equipment purchased in 1959 and valued at $600. The suit alleges that the county bought this equipment and that all the items are not in possession of the county at the present time. It called for the return of all the equipment.

On March 13 Edwards filed a taxpayers' suit against the former judge and Harry Robinson. It alleged that Judge Garrett illegally sold a truck to Robinson for an undetermined amount of sand and gravel. Within a few days Robinson returned the truck in question to the county. The suits were filed for Mr. Edwards by Attorney James H. Pilkinton.

Court Rules Vote Machine Is Valid

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Use of voting machines in Arkansas elections is constitutional if the machine numbers the ballot so that the voter record can be checked later, the state Supreme Court ruled today.

The opinion modified Pulaski Circuit Judge Guy Amster's ruling that act 484 of 1949—the voting machine law is unconstitutional on ground votes were not recorded individually on the type machine involved in the suit.

Today's ruling apparently opens the way for the city of Little Rock to continue its efforts to obtain voting machines, if a machine can be found to record the individual vote.

Amster's ruling came in a suit filed by the city after the County Election Commission refused to purchase voting machines although voters had approved them.

In the lower court, the city defended use of the Shoup voting machine, the type it wanted the county to buy.

The Supreme Court's opinion today said, "After studying the question we are unanimously of the opinion that an election conducted with the Shoup machine would not conform to the detailed requirements of our constitution."

"The controlling section requires that every ballot be numbered and that the number be recorded opposite the elector's name on the list of voters. We are unable to reconcile the use of the Shoup machine with these basic constitutional demands."

The unanimous opinion by Justice George Rose Smith, said the court found no constitutional objections to voting machines which would number the vote cast by the individual elector.

The opinion did not order the election commission to install voting machines as the city asked in its original suit. Apparently the city will have to find a machine that meets the court's requirements and then file some new pleading.

"It cannot be doubted that the secrecy of the ballot is better protected by the voting machine since use of the machine prevents anyone else from ever discovering how an elector voted," the Supreme Court said.

"But this circumstance is offset by the fact that the draftsmen of the constitution chose to subordinate the secrecy of the ballot to the purity of the election."

The court said that in an election using the Shoup machine there would be no way to contest the vote of a person who may have voted illegally.

In a Jackson County case, the Supreme Court affirmed a Chancery Court ruling that Charles G. Taylor did not have a valid contract to purchase land from Josephine W. Connell and R. D. Wilkins and Sons.

The sellers stopped Taylor from cutting timber on the land after he fell he had negotiated a purchase contract with an attorney for the sellers.

The court said the attorney did not have power to execute a final contract and that it was not valid until the sellers had approved it.

During the course of a year regular city affairs combined with municipal electrical and water system transactions add up to a million dollars handled by the governing body of Hope.

Although handled by separate governing boards both the water and light systems and the dozen various city departments are under direct supervision of the city manager.

Under the present setup the city manager answers to the Water and Light Plant Commission on electrical and water matters and to the City Board of Directors on city affairs. The operations are kept separate.

This city expects to take in $295,485 from all revenue sources during 1961 and according to its proposed budget expenditures during the year will run $261,572.80. These figures are for city operation alone and do not include the municipal owned electrical system.

Electrical and water revenues during 1961 are expected to reach $667,600 as compared to $614,212 during the previous year. Expenditures in the same department during this year will hit $454,177 as compared to $407,188 during 1959. The gross profit from the two departments this year should reach $223,422 as compared to $207,023 in 1959. It should be kept in mind that $48,000 is transferred annually to the city.

Persian Gulf Ship Disaster Fatal to 212

By JAMES MORE O'FERRALL

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP)—The burned-out and deserted wreck of the British liner Dara sank today as salvage ships were trying to beach her. The owners issued a new casualty toll raising the number that may have been lost in the Persian Gulf disaster to 212. Two were Americans.

The figures were issued here by Gray MacKenzie, agents for the line.

The company's breakdown: 580 passengers, 132 crew, estimated 60 visitors, total 772. Survivors 560. Missing 212.

An official of Gray MacKenzie said the number of visitors was approximate because they did not have to register when they came aboard at the Arabian port of Doha, 300 miles east of this oil port.

Most of the missing were Asians, but an American employee of the Caltex Oil Co., L. V. Dorsch of Brooklyn, N. Y., and his wife, Vala, were aboard. They were reported on their way to California to retire after 35 years with Caltex.

The 5,300-ton Dara was en route from Basra to Bombay early Saturday when she collided with another ship in a storm. The Dara headed for open water to avoid being blown ashore in heavy winds, but at 4:43 a. m. an explosion in the engine room rocked the liner and fire broke out. The flames spread rapidly, and passengers and crew abandoned ship.

Braving explosions, firefighting parties from the British and U.S. navies boarded the blazing liner and reported Sunday they had the fire under control.

The ship's owners, the British India Steamship Co., said the British Navy had planned to start towing her to the Persian Gulf island of Bahrain today "but a deterioration in the condition of the Dara, overnight" caused the decision to try to beach her. She sank about 15 miles off the Oman coast of the Arabian Peninsula.

Scores of panicked passengers jumped into the stormy, shark-infested waters.

One American survivor, Mrs. H. G. Lyker, wife of a missionary from Holland, Mich., said "the gangways and corridors were filled with people rushing about in a frenzy shouting 'fire, fire' when the order was given to abandon ship. Many had only their night clothes on."

Phone Firm Asks Rate Increases

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The United Telephone Co. of Arkansas today asked the Public Service Commission for authority to raise $850,000 to finance conversion of its exchanges to dial.

Part of the money would be used to repay money already spent in the program; the rest for conversion of exchanges at Clarendon, Leachville, Manila and Trumann.

Eichmann to Trial for Mass Slaying

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germans today looked with mixed feelings toward Israel and the trial of Nazi SS leader Adolf Eichmann—feelings of fear, guilt, remorse and also indifference.

The Bonn government is worried that the trial will arouse the world anew against Germany. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer himself has appealed for understanding and forgiveness.

There is fear that Eichmann may implicate persons active today in the West German government.

"I hope we cleared out all the bad ones," said one high official. "It would be horrible if he implicated someone in the government today."

The man in the street generally expresses guilt and remorse but there have been some who told this reporter: "We are not going to learn anything we didn't know 16 years ago."

The Bonn Justice Ministry issued a report March 29 showing that West German courts tried and sentenced at least 2,027 Nazi criminals between 1945 and 1960 for crimes ranging from simple assault to mass murder.

But this report covers only three of the 10 states and West Berlin. The Justice Ministry says seven states have kept no statistics on such trials.

There is no doubt that Nazi criminals were vigorously pursued and tried by West German authorities. But this lack of trial statistics could well be an indication of the desire to forget the past.

UN Calls for Action Against South Africa

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. special political committee today called for punitive action against South Africa for its racial policies. This included an African demand for an economic and diplomatic boycott.

The boycott proposal won majority approval, but failed to get the required two-thirds margin needed for final ratification in the General Assembly. This meant that the assembly probably would wind up by adopting only a milder Asian resolution which simply called on all countries to consider "separate and collective action" against the South African government.

The vote on the boycott plan was 47-29 with 18 abstaining. The United States was among those voting against the proposal. Most of its support came from African, Asian and Soviet bloc countries.

While the African-sponsored resolution got more support than was generally expected, it was not conceded much chance of gaining enough votes to get it through the assembly.

The vote on the milder resolution was 93-1 with none abstaining. This assured its final approval by an overwhelming margin. Only Portugal voted against the proposal. The United States voted for it.

This proposal did not spell out what action should be considered by the member nations. The African plan, however, specifically recommended rupture of diplomatic relations and a complete economic quarantine. Some delegates argued this was too harsh. South Africa's seat was vacant throughout the voting.

Porkers Start Spring Grid Practice

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Spring football practice begins next Saturday for the University of Arkansas Razorbacks with coach Frank Broyles seeking replacements in several positions.

Halfback Paul Dudley, a letterman on the 1959 Southwest Conference champions who was ineligible last year, will report with 13 returning lettermen.

The Razorbacks are minus 18 lettermen from the 1960 SEC champions, including five excused and 13 who graduated. One of the biggest gaps is at linebacker, aptly filled for three years by Wayne Harris.

Broyles moved the spring drills up to April 14, the reporting date, to gain an extra Saturday practice.

"We're right back where we started a year ago—just looking for hitters," Broyles said.

A Red-White game is set for May 6 here with another in Little Rock May 13.

The five lettermen excused from the spring session are All-SWC halfback Lance Alworth, who is participating in track; All-SWC end Jimmy Collier, who left school plans to return next fall; halfback Darrell Williams, out for baseball; and lineman John Childress and Dean Garrett, exempt as two-year lettermen.

Among Broyles' headaches are expected to be a lack of depth at end and center and possibly at the tackle positions.

George McKinney and Billy Moore, 1960 quarterbacks, will return for the spring workouts as will fullbacks, Billy Joe Moody and Mickey Cissell. Other returning veterans are ends Hoover Evans and Tim Langston, halfbacks Dudley and Harold Horton, tackles Jerry Mazzanti and Billy Clay; guards Danny Brabham, Ray Trail and Charlie Moore and center Jerry Lineberger.

Palmer and Player in Final Round

By JERRY LISKA

Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Chesley challenger Gary Player and crusty defending champion Arnold Palmer face a delayed final go for the Masters golf title today after a rainstorm drowned Sunday's scheduled last round.

The entire 41-player field must start over again but based on Sunday's canceled activity, Player's four-stroke lead may fold under Palmer pressure.

When the lightning-etched, bloated skies spilled a waterfall on Augusta National course, Player held only a two-stroke lead over Palmer at 65 and 63 holes respectively.

At that point no other contender had a chance for the estimated $20,000 top prize, although 10 players already had completed 72 holes, led by Mike Sauchak and Dick Mayer with 291s.

The forecast envisioned partly cloudy, windy weather with temperatures reaching the high 60s.

The par 36-36-72, 6,980-yard course drains well, so Player and Palmer, whose birdie-birdie finish carved his second Masters' triumph last year, could wind up in a tight finish.

Player, who starts 30 minutes ahead of Palmer, could find himself in the same sad situation as Ken Venturi last year. Venturi finished with an apparent title-clinching 283. One stroke down with two holes to go, Palmer bagged birdies on the 17th and 18th and won with 282.

Between South Africa's Player, seeking to become the first foreign player to win the Masters, and Palmer, the most chagrined over the cancellation came from Palmer. "I was getting the breaks and on the move," he said.

Palmer had wrapped up a 2-under-par 34 on the first nine, while Player—turning the first nine in 35—had floundered to a bogey on the flooded 11th green when play was called.

As the field repeats its final round start, pro Paul Harney and amateur Charley Coe, are tied for third—six strokes off the pace at 212. Pro Bill Collins is at 213, and the trio of Jack Burke, Bob Risburg and Don January are notched at 214.

A faculty member of the College of Engineering, University of Arkansas, operated an experimental radio transmitter at Fayetteville for several years before military exigencies required its suspension in 1917.

Bass Clef Is Disqualified as Winner

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The 43-day Oaklawn Park racing season, the longest and richest in the track's history, closed on an exciting note Saturday with the winner of the $25,000 - added Arkansas Derby being disqualified.

Bass Clef, victory by a neck over Light Talk, was dropped to show position and Light Talk given the laurels after jockey Robert Nono claimed Bass Clef interfered with his mount at the head of the stretch.

Loyal Son, running a length behind Light Talk was placed in the second position.

The riding error by Ronnie Baldwin was costly, with the winning mount receiving $18,638.75 of the gross Derby purse of $28,675. Loyal Son got $5,735, Bass Clef $2,867.50 and Jewel Thief, who came in fourth, $1,433.75.

Light Talk paid $7.00, $3.00 and $2.40.

Following the disqualification of Bass Clef, Oaklawn steward suspended Baldwin for 10 days for careless riding.

The Silver Anniversary running of the Derby climaxed Oaklawn's most profitable meeting. The overall crowd totaled 379,068 with the total betting setting a new high at 21,278,577.

Bass Clef, winner of the $40,000 added Louisiana Derby, covered the mile and half over a sloppy course in 1:50.1. The California horse had won five of his seven starts as a 3-year-old and had earned $51,475.

Second Trial of Mrs. Rand Starts

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The second murder trial of Mrs. Virginia Rand, accused of the fatal shooting of a Rogers cafe owner, begins here today.

Mrs. Rand was found guilty of second degree murder in November 1959, but the conviction was overturned by the Arkansas Supreme Court last Dec. 12 on grounds inadmissible and prejudicial evidence had been allowed.

Mrs. Rand, the wife of a prominent Rogers businessman, was charged with shooting H. V. (Buddy) Clark, 33, in her bedroom Aug. 19, 1959.

The state claimed in the first trial at Bentonville that Clark was shot when he attempted to end a romance. But the defense pleaded self-defense.

A change of venue from Benton County, where the new trial had been set for March 27 was granted.

Firemen had the fire under control in two hours.

The New York Store, Darling Shop and J. C. Penney, which adjoin Jiedel's, suffered water and smoke damage.

The department store was operated by Kelley Welch of means a water heater in a closet & hot water all the time!

Water heater in a closet! Sure... and it's as safe as the electric light in a closet, because it's a Flameless Electric Water Heater. This one—from one of the very newest Gold Medalion Homes—was placed in the closet, but you could put it under a counter, or up in the attic, because it needs no flue, no relighting, no worrying over it at all!

Best of all, perhaps, is the fact that quick-recovery electric water heaters provide you with all the really hot water your family needs—for baths, for dishes and for clothes—whenever you turn on the faucet. You see, in an electric tank the water is KEPT hot, not just re-heated.

All this, plus AP&L's special low water heating rate, makes Flameless Electric Water Heating a bargain YOU ought to want!

Wife Resents Being a Chattel

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I am one of those wives who feels used and not appreciated. My husband is a good worker; we never worry about money. He comes home, watches TV and sleeps. Occasionally, he plays with our children who worship him.

This is our fifth year of marriage and I am pregnant with our fourth child. My husband never waded children but after they came he loved them.

He lost his father at 11 and his mother at 16. For this reason I try to overlook his glaring mistakes in grammar and his lack of manners. He considers my efforts to beautify the home stupid. He isn't even considerate in love-making. I am 25, he 28, but it is all I can do to keep from screaming when he touches me.

Last fall I went back to work and discovered what it was like to be a person in my own right. Now I've had to take a leave of absence and feel trapped. Will it be better for me to lead an empty and sometimes useless life to keep my children with their father, or would we be better off without him?

The older boy is very nervous. Our girl cries a lot. The baby is too young and jolly to be affected by the situation.

Dear J.: Are you thinking of yourself or your children when you speak of leaving your husband? You say they worship him. How would such a separation affect them?

If you did take this drastic step, could you support yourself and them, or would you still look to your husband for maintenance? Suppose he, and not you, was given custody of the children? Does your religion recognize divorce? These are questions you must ask yourself and answer before you make the final decision. Don't act hastily. Wait till the baby comes. Yours is the letter of a thoughtful, mature and resigned woman. Never be resigned! There is always a workable solution to every problem. I am sending you my leaflet, "Marital Harmony." See that your husband reads it.

Dear Helen: We are two girls of 17, close friends of a third girl. She is very nice but dresses gaudily and applies makeup with a heavy hand. She is going to the senior prom with a fellow who is a jolt.

Just the other day we overheard two boys talking about our friend. He said, "You can't get too much from her. She is not that foolish, but you will get a little."

This girl has been our close friend for four years, but she is not the type you can confide in or tell things to. Her closest friend seems to be her mother. We would like to warn her of what the fellows are saying, and not to give this guy, who is very fast, any more than a goodnight kiss.

—Worried Friends

Dear Worried Friends: Don't be meddlers. Unless your friend asks your advice, say nothing. Understandable though your concern is about this girl, you can't or shouldn't set yourselves up as her mentors. What she does is her own business, not yours.

Dear Helen: Can one live a Christian life when married to a divorced person?—B. B.

Dear B. B.: Divorce has no bearing on whether or not you can lead a Christian life. It's up to you, not the other person. According to St. Paul, the chief Christian virtue is charity—our tolerance.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine, the sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper.

Celtics Capture Key Game for 3-1 Pro Lead

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The Boston Celtics, just one game from another pro basketball crown, have their "best team ever" and one reason is the club's only rookie, Tom (Satch) Sanders.

Bob Cousy, the Celtics great headliner in his 11th season, put it this way: "This is the best basketball team ever assembled. We didn't have Sanders and (Jungle Jim) Loscutoff in the playoffs last year. The Jones boys (Sam and K.C.) are better."

"Now we have a great bench—and that makes this our best club."

Boston is on the verge of its fourth National Basketball Association title in five years.

Sanders hit 10 of 14 shots and scored 22 points — the same number as Cousy — as the Celtics belted St. Louis 119-104 Sunday on the Hawks home court. Bob Pettit had 40 points for St. Louis, but little help.

It gave Boston a 3-1 grip in the best-of-7 series going into the fifth game Tuesday night at the Boston Garden.

Sanders now has an 11-point average for the St. Louis series, no better than seventh on the deep Celtic team. But he's shooting a sizzling .559 from the field against St. Louis and .514 including the Eastern final with Syracuse. This tops the team for playoff action.

"He has the confidence now," Cousy said. "Satch always had a fine touch but this is never enough if you don't have the confidence."

Lion Report Now in Ozone Area

OZONE, Ark. (AP) — Clarksville doesn't have the corner on the lion market. An Ozone farmer Sunday reported tracks in this area, too.

Ozone is 15 miles north of Clarksville. Everett Farris reported he found huge cat-type tracks near his home.

The tracks correspond to those of the so-called lion when he made several appearances around Clarksville in the last few weeks.

Several hunting parties have not found the lion, but one motorist saw him run across the road and another farmer got a shot at him and missed.

A hunting party went out Sunday and shot a wolf, but the lion was still on the loose.

CHAPTER XXXI

The clear flame blazed higher, bringing Scorbie to his feet. He climbed the rickety stairway to his barren room. He stowed his frugal fear in his saddle-bags, checked his gun carefully, and red turned to the bathroom. He settled back in his chair again and waited the reappearance of Charley Urbine and Buff Spooner.

When they showed, Buff Spooner was saying, "Have my horse looked after and show me a place where I can sleep."

Frank Scorbie got to his feet and came forward. His words fell curtly.

"You'll not sleep here, Spooner. When Chris Waddell told you to get out of Midas Hill, he meant clear the country complete. So get on that horse again and keep traveling!"

Buff Spooner stopped in his tracks. "Scorbie! What are you doing here?"

"No concern of yours," Scorbie held him shortly. "I've made it plain what you're to do. Keep traveling!"

Buff Spooner squared around, his puffed lips curling. "Don't tell me you're trying to be a man again and throw your weight around."

"Yes," said Scorbie steadily. "On your way!"

Buff Spooner laughed scornfully. "Why you useless drunk!"

This last was a measure of contempt he'd shown before. And Scorbie hit him across the face, a stiff-fingered, back-handed slap which set Buff on his heels.

Behind the blow lay a man's burning memory of all past indignities and ill-treatment taken at the hands of Buff Spooner and others of his ilk in Midas Hill.

It not only set Buff Spooner on his heels, but it turned loose a weak rage in Buff. He had a gun tucked under his belt, well to one side where his coat covered it. Now he grabbed for the weapon.

Half way through the move he grunted and went very still. For the muzzle of Frank Scorbie's gun stabbed him in the belly.

"Go ahead!" invited Scorbie bleakly. "Throw your gun."

Slowly, and with the greatest care, Buff brought his hand into view. And he brought it empty.

He reached under Buff's coat with his free hand, took over Buff's weapon, then struck him across the side of the neck with a rigid forearm, sending him staggering.

"Get out!"

The shock of that gun muzzle jammed so violently into his belly, and the realization that death had looked at him and breathed coldly upon him, had knocked all the whiskey courage out of Buff Spooner.

"All right!" Buff mumbled thickly. "I'll go."

He climbed into the saddle and went away. To the south.

Frank Scorbie watched him out of sight, then turned to Charley Urbine, terse with an order.

"Have my horse brought around!"

The swiftness of Scorbie's move when he drew on Buff Spooner had not been lost on Urbine, either. Something had amazingly revitalized this man. Urbine swung his elephantine bulk through the door to the porch and from there raised his breathy yell.

"Spike Saddle Scorbie's horse and bring it up!"

A knock at the door of his room roused Chris Waddell.

"Tim Roach," came a voice. "Want to see you?"

Waddell blinked, wondering. He called—"Door's unlocked. Come in."

Roach did so and without preamble of any sort made his blunt and literal announcement.

"There's a dead man down by the corral."

"Dead man?" Waddell threw his blankets aside.

"That's right. Looks like somebody beat him to death with a rock. Being that you pack the law badge, I figured you'd want to know. It's that gambler who hit town a couple or three days ago. The one that's been playin' in the Palace. Name's MacSwain."

Down by the corral, almost under the cold shadow of a towering freight wagon, Doc Stone and a pair of corral roustabouts made a small, crouched group beside a prone figure. As Waddell and Tim Roach arrived, Doc Stone looked up, bristling.

"Tell me—just what kind of a two-legged animal would treat a fellow human this way—beat his head in with a rock? Man—who likes to consider himself the highest order of the species!"

Chris Waddell looked down at the face of Ace MacSwain and knew an inner sickness. "About when would you say it happened, Doc?"

"At a guess—around midnight. Whoever did it turned his pockets

Houston Hosts Tennis Meet

HOUSTON (AP)—Five of the top 10 amateur tennis players in the world will be in action here starting Tuesday in the 27th River Oaks tennis tournament.

A total of 64 young players, most of them from colleges and universities in the southwest, played 48 matches today for 16 places opposite the 16 players who are exempt from a qualifying round.

The five stars in the tournament include Neale Fraser, Australia's No. 1 ranked player, and Bernard Bartzen, America's top-ranked amateur.

The foreign stars have the advantage in this year's tourney. Three of the top four seedings went to Australians Fraser, Rod Laver and Roy Emerson. Three other foreign countries are represented by their leading players.
